TEMPERANCE RALLY.

Tune—"Scott's" who's a, who's a, House ye at the Temperance Hall, House ye quick, one and all,
House and sing King Alcohol, Fight till victory.

Come and join our Temperance band,
Here we pledge our heart and hand,
Here we pledge our heart and hand,
Here we pledge our heart and hand.

Here ye not the sufferer's cry?
Can ye pass their sorrow by?
See ye not the danger sign?
Danger at thy door?

Now the tyrant breaks control,
On the body and the soul,
On the body and the soul,
On the body and the soul.

WHAT WILL THE WINTER BE?

Kids, Tell—The currents of the ocean, swirling in the peculiar way of the center of the Sun and relation of the Earth, are forced in a direction from the Polar regions, to the Equatorial and back again, mingling and interchanging, equalizing the extremes of heat and cold, tending to modify the sharpness of weather over the face of the earth.

The winds, without obstruction to their mobility, move over the earth in a different manner, with a direction at the poles from west to east with a spiral inclination in direction of the Equator, and on the Equator from east to west, with a spiral inclination to the poles. These general motions are supposed to be caused by the heat of the Sun, the form and rotation of the Earth upon its axis. The warm trade winds of the South meeting the cold under flow of the North, in the general direction of South-west and North-east, at this latitude, develop storms in the act of equalization, and the nearer the Equator, as a general rule, the greater the storm, but always subject to local or local causes of localities. In the Polar regions, or at any other point of locality in cold weather, electricity is more evenly diffused and lightning and thunder can not exist, but as the Equator is approached or in hot weather, at any point, thunder storms are developed in proportion to the extremes of the elements at that point. And as extremes rotate in opposition and are more or less subject to locality in a given time, we must expect a hard winter to follow a summer of heat and storm, and as this summer, so far, has been one of unusual heat and electrical disturbances, we had better make up our minds that the coming winter will be a hard one, and prepare accordingly.

A SHOW WORTH SEEING.

On Saturday, August 7th, Forepaugh's famous combination, pronounced the largest ever organized, is to exhibit here afternoon and evening. Mr. Forepaugh, in starting out upon his sixteenth annual tour, has succeeded in placing before the public the greatest of all his efforts in the circus line, and proudly points to the fact that each succeeding year his show has increased its wonders, until now it stands at the head of all its competitors. Among the latest novelties introduced this season by Mr. Forepaugh are the following: The Great Electric Light with all its construction machinery costing $30,000, which will light the tented city afternoon and evening. "The Human Cannon Ball" George Loyal, who is blown from the mouth of a cannon loaded with powder, across the arena and is caught by Mlle. Zoila who is hanging head downward from a trapeze.
An exchange speaks as follows of this act:
"The cannon explodes, and Mlle. Zoila prepared herself. Monsieur jumped into the cannon's mouth; silence became universal; female hearts began to flutter; the world was given to fire, bang! and the daring gymnast was shot through the air and was caught in the arms of the pendant woman. There was, of course, a storm of applause." Mlle. Zoila, the queen of the voltepedale, who rides that vehicle over a wire suspended sixty feet above the heads of the audience, is a French woman, and is noted for her daring, and is called the only legitimate rival of Blondin. These are but a few of the novelties of the ring.
The menagerie contains living wonders enough to satisfy the most ardent student of zoology. Besides the monster Hippopotamus, Six-ton Rhinoceros, Giraffes, Sea Lions, and a herd of Elephants, Mr.
Forepaugh has recently purchased the entire C. W. Rice's Famous London and Berlin Menagerie, and thus makes his menagerie one of the largest on the road.

PROHIBITION A FAILURE.

In 1875 an association of brewers met in Cincinnati. They declared that "prohibition has failed and will ever fail." The official report of the association showed a reduction in the number of breweries during the year of "nearly thirty per cent."

It also showed a decrease in the amount manufactured of 30,194 barrels.

Louis Schade, a special agent of the Brewers' Congress, in Washington, and editor of the Washington Sentinel, delivered an address before the convention, in which he explained the cause of the decrease.

This emphatic testimony is not the mere cant of temperance fanatics, but comes from our opponents. You may say that we are actuated by "self-interest," but what will you do with Mr. Schade's strong official statements?

"Very severe is the injury which the brewers have sustained in the so-called temperance States. The local-option law in Pennsylvania reduced the number of breweries in that State from 600 in 1870, to 546 in 1874, thus destroying 154 breweries in one year. In Michigan it is even worse; for of 202 breweries in 1874, only 68 remained in 1874. In Ohio the crash-ers destroyed 68 out of 206. In Indiana the Raxter law stopped 66 out of 158. In Maryland the number of breweries was reduced from 74 to 15, some few of those stopped, lying in those counties in which they have a local option law. We sincerely hope that the Maryland Democracy, which had yielded too much to the temperance craze, will take an early opportunity to eradicate that unjust law which permits the people of a portion of the State to be put under tyranny and despotism of those fanatics."

Mr. Schade then refers to the decrease of 116,585 barrels in Massachusetts, and says that it is "in consequence of the prohibitory law."

There is no doubt that the temperance agitation and prohibitory laws are the chief causes of the decrease compared with the preceding year. Had our friends in Massachusetts been free to carry on their business, and had not the State authorities constantly interfered with the latter, there is no doubt that instead of showing a decrease of 116,585 barrels in one year, they would have increased at the same rate as they did the preceding year.

After listening to this address of their chosen officer is it any wonder they declared prohibition a failure, and proceeded to resolve: "That where restriction and prohibitory enactments exist, every possible measure be taken to oppose, resist, and repel them; and it is further:

Resolved, That politicians favoring prohibitory enactments, who offer themselves as candidates for office, be everywhere strenuously opposed, and the more so if it be found that their personal habits do not conform with their public professions."

And all this walling, simply because "prohibition has failed, and ever will fail."
